

iQ Retail and Kerridge CS take their merger to the next level

iQ Retail is excited to announce that they have officially co-branded with Kerridge Commercial Systems.

Kerridge Commercial Systems, a leading provider of ERP solutions within the Distribution, Wholesale and Retail sectors, has acquired a number of businesses over the last few years as this has only enhanced their growth potential and has made available an even greater host of solutions for their customers. With that in mind, Kerridge Commercial Systems South Africa acquired iQ Retail, a leading ERP and retail solution for small to medium sized businesses, in April 2017. They have taken a strategic approach to integrate the two businesses and to get to know each other. "Two years later, we are pleased to say that we have successfully integrated, and we are stronger than ever" said Des Nangle, Kerridge Commercial Systems SA MD. The co-brand has therefore been a strategic decision at the right time.

Kerridge Commercial Systems believes that co-branding will make iQ Retail an even stronger partner for their customers with more business solutions, a bigger global footprint and greater backing, enabling them to be of greater service to their customers. iQ Retail, A Kerridge Commercial Systems Company, have assured their customers that the co-brand does not involve any changes to their products and will not affect their customers apart from having a greater host of solutions available.

"We are excited about this new journey. Kerridge Commercial offers an exciting opportunity for iQ Retail to strengthen and expand its solution and service offering, both nationally and internationally. The synergies of products and staff will significantly enhance our opportunities to serve our business partners and customers, allowing them to benefit from a global footprint and a greater host of solutions", said Michael Reyneke, Director of iQ Retail.

We would like to thank our loyal customers for their continued support. This is an exciting evolution for iQ Retail and Kerridge Commercial Systems.
